

10/527405

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A self-contained alarm device for monitoring the supply status of a monitored electrical appliance for connection in the supply line from the network to the appliance characterized in that it has no internal power source or battery and is operable to provide an audible and/or visible alarm signal if the electrical power to the appliance is interrupted after connection.